The interaction of the oversized work with nature is the catalyst for the atmosphere we want to create. Nothing is given, in relation to the weather phenomena of that day, but also nothing is left to chance, in relation to the final question. Anyone present at that point at the time of emergence, accompanied by a polyphonic obituary, will be the recipient of a subtle invitation that will "float" in the atmosphere. "Come to my place."... An invitation from this Woman-martyr... of yesterday?... of today?... of always?... Food for thought, for reflection, for internal dialogue... What separates today as of yesterday it is only the surface of the fresh water of the lake... In general, only the surface.
